Cairo, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The rumbling crash of exploding dynamite echoed along the Mississippi levee below here again tonight to cheer weary flood fighters—despite spreading disease among southeastern Missouri's 40,000 homeless and the inevitability of a flood crest still up the Ohio.

GENERAL MOTORS RENEWS EFFORTS FOR EVACUATION

Resorts Again To Court Action To Eject Strikers

Gov. Frank Murphy Rebukes Flint Alliance

Detroit, Jan. 28.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation, referring to "sit-down" strikers occupying two Fisher Body Company plants in Flint, Mich., as "former employees," renewed tonight its effort to eject them by court action.

A petition filed with Circuit Judge Paul V. Gaudin of Genesee county by Roy Brownell, Flint attorney for the corporation, requested an injunction prohibiting the strikers from further possession of the plants. The United Automobile Workers of America, whose widespread strikes have paralyzed General Motors production, was directed to show cause at hearing at 2 p. m. (E. S. T.) next Monday why an injunction should not be granted.

At Lansing today Governor Frank Murphy, asserting he had information of plans by undisclosed groups to incite riots in Flint in order to involve 2,500 National Guardsmen stationed there in the strike situation, rebuffed a delegation from the strike-opposed Flint Alliance.

The governor declined to answer an Alliance demand that he guarantee "full protection" for all workers to and from their jobs, said that settlement negotiations arranged under his "Lansing agreement" with opposing leaders were upset "in part" by the Alliance, and added:

"If that had not happened you might all have been at work now."

George E. Boyesen, founder of the Alliance, said in a statement at Flint that the organization "will continue to demonstrate in every way possible that it expects and demands that the forces of law and order in Michigan be used to permit the great majority x x x to return unmolested to their jobs."

The injunction petition at Flint named Homer Martin, U. A. W. A. president, and 29 other persons, including officers of the international union, its executive board and officers of two Flint locals. It referred to Martin as a "professional organizer" who never has been in the employ of General Motors, and charged that he and the other defendants in the petition had conspired to cause work stoppage and refusal to leave the Fisher factories.

The petition charged the strikers have committed "continuous trespasses" since Dec. 20 and that by threat and intimidation they have prevented employees not on strike from entering the plants.

Weather

For Jacksonville and vicinity: Fair and colder today; unsettled with rising temperatures tomorrow.

The Norbury Sanatorium, cooperative observatory for the U. S. Weather Bureau, last night gave temperatures as High 39; Low 22 and Current 34.

Illinois: Generally fair, somewhat colder Friday; Saturday rain in south, rain or snow in north portion, rising temperature.

Indiana: Generally fair, colder Friday; Saturday rain in south, snow or rain in north portion, rising temperature.

Missouri: Increasing cloudiness, possibly snow in northwest, somewhat colder in southeast and extreme east-central portions Friday; Saturday rain in east and south, rain or snow in northwest, somewhat warmer in east portion.

Iowa: Increasing cloudiness, followed by snow in west, rising temperature in extreme west portion Friday; Saturday snow in west and north, rain or snow in southeast portion, somewhat warmer in extreme east, colder in extreme west portion.

DEMAND DEATH FOR SEVENTEEN CONSPIRATORS

Russian Prosecutor Asks Supreme Pen- alty For Crimes

Links Bolshevist Activity With Exiled Leon Trotsky

Moscow, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky demanded death tonight for 17 confessed conspirators to overthrow the government—the same fate which defendant Karl Radek urged in his newspaper writings for 16 other conspirators who pleaded guilty and were shot last August.

Requiring five hours to summarize the government's charges by traitorous acts to involve Russia in war with Germany and Japan, overthrow the government and restore capitalism, Vishinsky turned suddenly to the suddenly-aged man of letters.

"Radek demanded that traitors pay with their heads," he rapped out. "Do you remember that, Radek?"

The former editor of the authoritative newspaper Izvestia sat with bowed head. He did not look up or reply.

In demanding death for the 16 confessed conspirators, tried last August, Radek "made a small mistake," Vishinsky roared.

"Radek thought he was writing about Zinovieff and Kamenoff (two of the former defendants). He made a small mistake which this trial corrects. He wrote about himself."

Striding to the center of the court, Vishinsky shouted out his demand for death and concluded his case. For two minutes the crowded courtroom applauded.

Testimony by the defendants, who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and treason, recounted hundreds of train wrecks in which more than 60 persons were killed—part of the plan for sabotage the defendants said they counted upon to aid their cause.

"I accuse the defendants of having organized in 1933 a parallel Trotskyist center for forcible overthrow of the Soviet government with the aid of foreign bayonets," Vishinsky said.

"I accuse Gregory Platoff (former assistant commissar for heavy industry) Gregory Sokolnikoff (former ambassador to London) and Radek of approving Trotsky's negotiations with Fascist aggressors," he said.

"I accuse the center of carrying out wrecking with great damage, high treason, espionage, sabotage and the organization of criminal forces."

Reach Settlement Of Red Threat In Chinese Province

Communist Armies Agree to Retire Farther to Northwest

Nanking, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Chinese government announced today a settlement of the seven-week political-military crisis in Shensi province by an agreement under which Communist and Communist-inspired armies will withdraw still further into the bleak northwest.

Nanking leaders said this agreement ended the threat of widespread civil war which has filled Shensi and Kansu provinces with fear and caused the evacuation of about 100 American and other foreign missionaries from those regions.

They asserted the national government would recover control of Sianfu, the evacuated city and center of the long-drawn uprising. Nanking's huge-scale preparations to subdue the rebellious areas now would be cancelled, it was stated.

The mixed array of fighting men who have been on the verge of war with Nanking and demanding war against Japan have agreed to retire into eastern Kansu, northwest Shensi and Nanchia provinces.

These armies include the divisions formerly commanded by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Lian; the followers of General Yang Hu-Chen, strongest Shensi militarist, and the Communist forces of northern Shensi which have strongly influenced the uprising.

Nanking military leaders asserted this brought to a conclusion the complicated and tragic chain of events which began at Sianfu Dec. 12, with the seizure of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, military head of the Chinese state.

ASKS U. S. DECLARE NEUTRALITY POLICY

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A House committee heard Bernard M. Baruch declare today that because the world is in a state of "alarm," the United States should state its neutrality policy clearly.

The white-haired New York financier, who was chairman of the World War Industries Board, also recommended legislation to curb war profits in case the United States is drawn into conflict.

To eliminate profiteering, he said, higher income taxes and regulation of prices would be necessary.

When Sun Pierced Louisville's Gloom

The sun helped paint a vivid picture of devastation as it shone on this once busy downtown Louisville street, now just another wave-tossed channel for the mad Ohio's rampage. A motor boat lies moored to a utility pole, a truck stands stalled and deserted nearby, while another truck ventures into "the channel" as one of its occupants peers apprehensively over the "gunwale." Muddy water runs several feet deep down the aisles of the moving picture theaters on both sides of the street—Fourth street, looking south toward Broadway.

VIOLENT STORMS UNITED STATES TAKE DEATH TOLL ACTS TO PROBE IN WEST EUROPE LABOR CHARGES

Heavy Rains Also Perkins Sends Investi- Cause Threats of Serious Floods gators; Asks For More Power

London, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The winter's most violent gales roared across western Europe from Scandinavia to Gibraltar today, swelling the roster of storm dead to at least 56.

Heavy rains caused threats of serious floods. Portugal was hard hit as the storm, described by meteorologists as the worst in 50 years, wrecked the harbor of Leixoes.

Toll of the tempest included 18 trawlers, three sailing vessels, a steamer, a motor vessel and numerous smaller craft in European waters. Two trawlers were believed to have carried 46 men to their deaths in the North Sea yesterday after distress signals had been flashed.

The French trawler Lorette with 30 men aboard nor the British Amethyst was believed to have kept afloat in the gale and heavy seas.

Two men were believed to have drowned at Oporto, Portugal, when the Norwegian steamer Engrja broke from her River Douro moorings and sank in the morish Orient. The victims were aboard the Orient.

The gales reached a velocity of 97 miles-hour at some Portuguese coastal points, and Lloyds reported the crew of the Dutch steamer Jonge Jacobus had taken to lifeboats when the ship started to sink.

The British Isles felt the storm's full force as gales lashed harbor waters, retarding normal shipping schedules. Coastwise and Thames Estuary shipping was halted.

Four crew members of the tug Tosteth were believed drowned in Mersey river, near Liverpool, when the craft capsized while towing the liner Pegu from her dock. The Russian steamer Irtys was reported a casualty off Whitby.

Four more scattered deaths were reported.

DOCTOR HELPS TO SET HIS OWN BROKEN BONE

Edwardsville, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Dr. Eugene Wahl is one doctor who can take care of himself.

The 52-year old physician slipped on an icy step of his home last night, fell heavily and struck his left leg against a post.

As he hobbled back to the house he diagnosed his condition—a broken bone.

POSTMASTERS TO BE NAMED UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

House Passes Bill; Send Measure To The Senate

Add Amendments in Freak Session, Then Drop Them

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The House balked and kicked at a bill to place all postmasters under the classified civil service, then finally passed it tonight after a tumultuous seven-hour session.

It was one of those sessions when anything might happen—and a good many things did. The lights went out for a while, members went out for dinner and came back in plenty of time to vote, and a couple found time to go home and don dinner jackets for evening engagements.

Finally, after putting a series of amendments in the measure, the House reversed itself to knock them all out and pass the bill without even a record vote. The bill goes to the Senate.

Led by Representative Collins, (D-Miss.) and Nichols (D-Okla.), a group of Democratic opponents of the measure joined by Republicans put through amendments to reestablish a system of presidential appointment of postmasters for four-year terms, each appointee to be chosen from the three highest candidates certified by the civil service commission after competitive examinations. Some members complained this would spell return to the old "spoils system" under which patronage dispensers (usually legislators) recommended which of the three eligibles should be appointed.

Later, on a roll call the House rejected the amendments, by a vote of 216 to 164. Then it voted down a Republican motion to send the original measure back to the civil service committee for substitution of a bill proposed by Representative Bacon (R-N.Y.). This motion lost 270 to 109.

Republicans attacked the bill as one that would place incumbent Democratic postmasters in office for life, while Nichols pleaded for the return of the "spoils system."

The measure would place approximately 14,000 first, second and third class postmasters under the merit system. More than 23,000 fourth class postmasters are already under that system.

Sponsors of the bill said it was designed to make permanent (with modifications) an order issued by President Roosevelt last July. That order stood only at the will of the chief executive. Any successor could change it.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The government assigned "G men" tonight to investigate union leaders' charges that strike-breakers were sent across state lines to the scene of a General Motors strike at Anderson, Ind.

Secretary Perkins sent an investigator to Anderson, Ind., to look into charges that the corporation instigated raids on a union meeting and union headquarters. John Porter, the investigator, also is to go to other cities in the strike zone.

Miss Perkins also dispatched Edward F. McGrady, her first assistant, to the capital to discuss with Congressional leaders her request for legislation empowering her to subpoena witnesses in investigating strikes and to recommend settlements.

The labor relations board asked the eighth circuit court of appeals to vacate an injunction restraining only the company from holding a hearing on its complaint that General Motors has "for a considerable period engaged in aggravated forms of industrial espionage, threats and coercion." General Motors obtained the injunction last June. The company covered only employees in St. Louis Chevrolet-Fisher Body assembly plant.

Meantime, Miss Perkins continued her efforts to settle the strike by mediation. She said she had been in communication, indirectly, with Alfred P. Sloan Jr., General Motors president. McGrady had two conferences with John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization. Which is backing the strike.

The labor department chief would make no report on the results of her efforts, however, further than to say she still was "hopeful."

Urgent Call

Cairo, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Here is an example of the flood urgency in charge Dr. James S. Johnson, in charge of an emergency housing bureau in Cairo.

Said the doctor:

"Mrs. Ed. Hill, who left here earlier in the week, got me on long distance last night—with a request that I send a man out to her house right away with a quart of milk for her cat."

The Treadmill

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor found today that almost 9,000,000 unemployed have gone back to work since March, 1933, but that about the same number remained without jobs.

"This fact is of tragic import to our nation," the Federation said in its monthly business survey.

Bad Weather Hinders Work At Louisville; Death Toll Mounting

200,000 MAY GO ON RELIEF ROLLS IN FLOOD AREAS

Number Does Not In- clude Any Section In Danger

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Rain, cold and the threat of snow closed in on flooded Louisville tonight as unofficial estimates of the dead increased.

The swollen Ohio having done $100,000,000 or more damage, retreated reluctantly, dropping almost 5 inches to 56.7 feet in 24 hours. But indications that it still could cause great harm came with the sudden settling four inches of a big department store building on Fourth street in the heart of the business section.

Two other large structures, the 18-story Kentucky Hotel and the Republic building, also showed cracks at the base. Flood pressure from below through the buildings themselves are above the high water mark, may have affected slightly the sandy base on which Louisville stands.

Sudden ringing of burglar alarms, due to settling of the Kaufmann-Strauss structure in the center, brought police racing to the building, which like most others in Louisville, is not open for business. They found counters on the lower floors sliding toward the middle of the rooms, and immediately roped off the area, forbidding it even to relief traffic that has been passing chiefly down this main way. Police said there was no danger of collapse, in their opinion.

Meanwhile the tremendous job of evacuating refugees, concentrated today on the southern central section of the city only a few feet under water, went on rapidly despite the chilling rain that brought the threat of increased pneumonia and influenza cases to jammed hospitals and emergency stations. Snow will increase the speed of the river's fall, experts believe, but it was bad news indeed for doctors and nurses, already staggering from weariness as they treated thousands of serious cases.

The task of accurately estimating the dead became even more difficult, as the semi-official censorship imposed upon by civil authorities on this phase of the tragedy took a more violent turn. Although authorities insist that there are virtually no drowned victims being brought in from the inundated sections after 130 were recovered from the west end section yesterday, two Associated Press photographers, Murray Becker and Harry Harris, found boats unloading cargoes of dead near the pontoon bridge across Beargrass creek.

As the flashlight bulbs went off, police and soldiers rushed the photographers, threatening to smash their cameras. Police drove them away, and after each got one picture of a sheet-wrapped corpse, only a few minutes out of the flood waters. There was no way of telling how many bodies the boats contained.

One army official, who refused to be quoted, said the bodies of 40 drowned persons were carried across the pontoon bridge today. The federal troops now are in charge of the bridge.

In the Cave Hill cemetery, in the highlands section west of the water, the same two Associated Press photographers took pictures of a trench, estimated able to hold 150 caskets, where unidentified dead taken from the flood waters are being buried. Similar trenches will be, or have been constructed, in at least two other cemeteries on the highlands.

Fingers of the unidentified dead and fingers of the living are being taken wherever possible to provide clues for possible later identification when Louisville comes out of its nightmare of tragedy and brown, rushing waters. As a further means of bringing order out of chaos, two missing persons bureaus were established today by Orville C. Dewey, representative here for the federal bureau of investigation in Washington, to check the names of the missing against a check of survivors on the hills.

Walter Moxon, the weather bureau's flood forecasting expert, reported the worst of the flood-over in the Ohio valley, except at Evansville, where the crest was expected tonight. He added, however, the situation must be watched closely for two months.

Harry L. Hopkins, the Works Progress Administrator, emphasized that unsanitary conditions left by the receding waters constituted a grave danger.

"Refugees must not be allowed to go back to their homes," Hopkins said, "until the public health service pronounces the situation satisfactory."

Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., surgeon general, the public health service, announced that enough typhoid vaccine had been shipped into the flood area to inoculate 1,000,000 persons.

The Red Cross reported $2,831,361 had been contributed toward the $10,000,000 relief fund it is seeking.

BIG FLOOD MAY COME AGAIN—IN 200 YEARS

Cincinnati, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux scanned volumes of weather records today, declared them "too short," then dipped into Indian lore to see a possibility of a flood "still greater than the present one"—some 200 years hence.

"The current situation," Devereaux told me, "is another illustration that records for 100 years such as we possess, are entirely too short to determine definitely whether we have reached the extreme either of temperature or river-stage."

What effects, if any, would January's unprecedented rainfall—13.52 inches in 24 days—have upon a dry summer?

"Bearing in mind that the subterranean water table has dropped 20 feet in the last 50 years, I should say that our rainfall has helped that 25 per cent."

"But we are sure to get some rain and that will benefit the surface soil as it comes. Otherwise I speak only in terms of subsurface moisture."

"I believe we should get through a moderately dry summer as well as we would a normal year, and we should get through an extremely dry summer 50 per cent better than if we hadn't had the rain."

FROM ROCKFORD

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Rockford's contribution to the Red Cross flood relief fund exceeded $10,000 tonight. The city's quota, originally set at $2,000, was increased five-fold as the disaster assumed greater proportions.

Flood Facts

(By The Associated Press)

Homeless—Approximately 1,000,000 in 11 states.

Known dead—Kentucky 227, Arkansas 25, Missouri 17, West Virginia 13, Ohio 14, Illinois 11, Tennessee 10, Indiana 9, Pennsylvania 3, Mississippi 2, Alabama 2, South Carolina 1. Total 335.

Damage—More than $400,000,000. River stages—Ohio falling from headwaters at Pittsburg to Owensboro, Ky., downstream from Louisville. Ohio rising from Evansville, Ind., to junction with Mississippi at Cairo, Ill. Mississippi rising from Cairo to Arkansas.

Extent—Army engineers estimated approximately 5,000 square miles affected between Pittsburgh and Memphis.

Weather—Rain or snow forecast for Ohio watershed.

Relief—Red Cross, seeking $10,000,000 flood relief fund, reported contributions had almost reached $3,000,000 mark.

HOUSE OF MORGAN

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the senate railroad investigating committee charged today that "the railways and the banks and the House of Morgan would like to stop this investigation" by writing a restrictive clause into a relief appropriation bill.

Commander Keating

Jacksonville citizens learned with pleasure this week that Lieut. Commander Emmett Keating has been elevated to the rank of Commander in the U. S. Navy.

Friends of this fine naval officer were gratified to learn of his new success for two reasons—first, because they know him well; he is a former resident of this city; second, because they are confident that he is well qualified to assume the added responsibilities of the higher rank.

As a Commander, Mr. Keating will be placed in charge of a ship of his own. While he has been high in naval rank for some years, passing through the offices of lieutenant and lieutenant commander, the promotion places him in line for still higher honors—the U. S. Navy makes rear admirals and admirals of its commanding officers.

All commanders do not become admirals even though they remain in naval service a lifetime, but Commander Keating seems to have the qualities that carry him to the front in his chosen line of work. Whether he remains a Commander, or in future years is entrusted with a still higher rank, he now possesses a brilliant record in our sea forces that is an inspiration for younger members of the navy.

Commander Keating's success in the navy has been continuous since he enrolled at Annapolis. During the world war he served on a vessel in foreign waters with a distinguished record. It is not surprising that high naval officers turn to men of his caliber when they select new leaders for Uncle Sam's sea forces.

The rise of the former Jacksonville man in government service proves that the army and navy offer an attractive career for young men of ability, who exert an earnest effort to make good. Young men who enter naval or military service with a hope of making it their life's work, are the future colonels, commanders, generals and admirals of our protective forces.

The Dog Situation

A front page editorial in the Macomb Journal recently urges immediate and effective action to eliminate from that city a large number of homeless, useless dogs. The editorial appeared shortly after a small, ownerless fox terrier, apparently afflicted by rabies, had dashed into a Macomb school and bitten six children.

The editorial calls upon city officials to act quickly in cleaning up the city by enforcing regulations as regards dogs.

"No dog, taken in by police, should be returned to the owner unless a stiff fine is imposed," says the editorial, pointing to the fact that "full-blooded dogs can carry and spread rabies as quickly as muffs."

As well as we like dogs, we are forced to admit the truth of the Macomb paper's statement.

Dogs should not be allowed to roam the streets day in and day out, coming home only when the forage of garbage pails in the alleys becomes too thin. Any self-respecting dog owner will at least make an attempt to keep his dog at home, considering at all times the convenience of others.

Many persons do not like dogs. They deplore the fact that strays run through their yards and gardens in the summer time, and are equally disturbed by barking of the animals on winter nights.

For the comfort and peace of mind of those who do not own dogs, and don't want to be near dogs, owners should keep their pets at home. This would not only be a joy for those who do not approve of dogs, but would also eliminate the danger of spread of rabies.

A Foot Light Tragedy

Lawrence Tibbett, the well known opera singer, was one of the principals in a distressing tragedy the other night. While rehearsing a stirring scene in "Caponacci," a dagger held by Tibbett grazed the hand of Joseph Sterzini, who died within five hours after he was removed to a hospital to have the slight wound treated.

The tragic affair was most unusual. But common sense would tell that the small wound on Sterzini's hand did not produce death. An autopsy revealed that death was due to heart disease. The wound may have induced the heart attack, but could not directly cause the singer's sudden demise.

This is one tragedy in the theatrical world where there will not be a breath of scandal. There will be no hints that "all the truth is not known." There will be no whispering campaign, to injure the career of the popular Tibbett.

Lawrence Tibbett is innocent of any crime. The wounding of the fellow member of his cast was an accident. The men were not enemies. Tibbett is grieved.

Tibbett will go on singing, with the death of Sterzini as a tragic memory of his brilliant career. But the affair will in no way cast a shadow over his career. Accidents can happen, even among famous theatrical folk, without a loss of prestige or a stain of suspicion upon those involved.

Keeping Step in Relief

It is no proper subject to inspire jealous competition among cities or individuals when it comes to such a matter as relieving of distress and succoring the homeless.

But never-the-less it may be mentioned with a feeling of pride that Central Illinois as a whole is arising to the emergency caused by the floods in a spirit of outstanding generosity and effective action.

When a city like Jacksonville planks down $1,500 or more within a few days, besides a couple of tons of food, clothing and other needed supplies, the fact indicates the hearts of the people are touched in a practical way.

This city, however, is only doing its duty, along with all surrounding communities. Towns of only a few hundred population are contributing startling amounts in proportion to their size to the Morgan County fund.

The entire state of Illinois is alert to the distress which has swept over some 20 or more communities near its southern borders. The state government is massing its resources, and the various cities, towns and villages are adding to the caravan of helpfulness which goes trekking southward these days.

The end is not in sight for the flood threatened regions. The raging rivers are still at their crest.

Neither should the flood relief halt until the crest of the flood had been reached.

To The Front—in Taxes

When classifying states in most any industry or activity it is customary to place New York first, Pennsylvania second and Illinois third. This is done in many subjects for which statistics are gathered.

There is one instance, though, in which Illinois steps out of her accustomed role of third position to that of second. This is in the matter of amounts paid into the federal treasury in the form of internal revenues.

New York still holds top place under this heading, but Illinois is next, stepping out ahead of Pennsylvania, Ohio and the other large and wealthy states.

Under the heading of excess taxes, capital stock taxes, and estate taxes, Illinois stands in second position.

Liquor taxes are a greater total in Illinois than in any other state, with Pennsylvania second and New York third. This is due to the huge distilleries in the Peoria-Pekin district, which is included in the same revenue district with Jacksonville.

Manufacturers' excise taxes, gasoline taxes, and taxes on radio, toilet preparations and other commodities rank at the top for Illinois. The figures are a testimonial to the scope of Illinois property ownership and industry.

Mayor For 32 Years

Ferdinand A. Garesche, mayor of Madison, Ill., continuously during the last 32 years, has announced that he will not be a candidate for reelection this spring. He has been ordered by his physician to curtail his activities.

Any man who has served as mayor 32 years is entitled to a rest. He must have been a good mayor, or the people would have found him out during that length of time.

In fact, Mr. Garesche is recognized as having contributed more of his time and energy to public service than any other man of his county during the last 32 years. In addition to the demands made upon him as mayor of the town during its years of rapid growth, he also has served the public as state representative, and at present is master-in-chancery of the county.

Still a comparatively young man, the mayor of Madison has abundantly earned the right of freedom from worries of such responsibilities as he has shouldered.

Between Two Fires

The Meredosia community high school appears to be between two fires. The grade school district has indicated that it needs all space in the grade school building, now shared by the high school, while the state department of public instruction has told authorities the high school must make improvements to remain on the accredited list.

This situation appears to have but one answer, and that is for the high school to get out of the grade building, and into a structure that meets with standards required by the state. A new building, in fact, is about the only thing that will solve the problem.

SOMETHING ELSE TO BEGIN THINKING ABOUT

The Family Doctor

Many Diseases That Affect Human Beings Transmitted by Animals

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In the matter of infection, man is his own worst enemy.

The two main sources of communicable diseases are men and the lower animals. There are certain diseases which occur only in human beings and which do not, in general, affect animals, although there may be diseases similar to these which do affect animals, some of them not affecting human beings.

For instance, typhoid fever, syphilis, leprosy, malaria, yellow fever, scarlet fever, smallpox, mumps, measles, chickenpox, and infantile paralysis occur in men but not in animals. True, it is possible to inoculate an animal with these diseases, as has been done on occasion with monkeys, rabbits, and dogs, but the diseases do not occur naturally in animals.

One kind of disease transmitted from man to man is the respiratory type—the cough and the cold. Spread of such diseases is facilitated by the conditions of modern living.

Once it was recognized that disease could be spread by water, soil, air, and food, and control of these elements was considered all that was necessary to stop epidemics. Under modern conditions, we control these environmental factors satisfactorily. It is exceedingly difficult, however, to control human beings.

As everyone now knows, many diseases are communicated to man by the lower animals—sometimes because these diseases affect the lower animals exactly as they affect human beings; in other instances, because the lower animal or insect is a carrier of the disease.

Every one knows that it is possible to get hydrophobia after being bitten by a mad dog. It has been widely publicized that rats carry plague, and that hog meat may be infected with trichina, which then infects the person who eats the meat.

Anthrax is a disease of cattle, Malta or undulant fever was first transmitted by the goat. Milk may be infected with tuberculosis germs from cattle, and all sorts of worms which infest the lower animals may be transmitted to human beings.

Among diseases which are known to affect lower animals and which, in recent years, have caused considerable distress among human beings, are tularemia, which is spread by eating or dressing the meat from an infected rabbit; psittacosis, which has been carried by parrots and canaries, as well as by lovebirds from the California coast; jaundice and rat bite fever, carried by rats.

It is also known that ringworm may be transmitted from the lower animals and that a flea-infested dog may transmit some of his fleas to a human being.

All this knowledge has aided in devising means of suppressing these conditions as they affect human beings, and in the investigation of diseases of unknown origin or of conditions of which the method of transmission is not yet understood.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

Was Lewis Wise in "Putting the President on the Spot"? Many Begin to Wonder as It Becomes Clear That He Stakes Future on Fate of Auto Drive, Where His Majority Position Is Doubtful.

(Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Even the friends and admirers of John L. Lewis are mixed up as to the wisdom, implications and possible consequences of his call to President Roosevelt for help in the General Motors strike, accompanied as it was by pointed reference to Roosevelt's political obligations to organized labor.

There can be no answer at this time. But there can be no question of the importance of the issue from several angles. For instance, if Lewis is going to exhibit conspicuously bad judgment in time of crisis development of the American labor movement is likely to be delayed. And if he makes mistakes which have disastrous consequences, his own leadership will be endangered as well as the future of his great industrial organization drive.

It can be asserted confidently that Lewis felt he knew exactly what he was doing when he served notice of expecting Roosevelt help against a common enemy and also that the effect on the inner White House circle was something approaching consternation.

F.D.R.'s Influence Felt

Although this will be denied, Roosevelt had to all intents and purposes been intervening in the strike through long distance telephone conversations with Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan. The extent to which the president made recommendations to Murphy as to his handling of the situation cannot be revealed here, but the governor's refusal to allow troops to be used against strikers or to permit local forces to try to elect sit-down strikers was an outstanding event in labor history.

Some of Roosevelt's closest friends complain that Lewis should have come to the White House and said the same thing privately to the president, instead of publicly putting F.D.R. on a spot. They have heard stories that Lewis had made remarks taking a "let the president come to me" attitude.

The interesting thing is that there had been no communication about the strike between Roosevelt and Lewis, although the latter's group spent more time, money and effort on Roosevelt's re-election than any other group did. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins waded into the situation in an effort to settle it, but this was an effort to regain her prestige in the industry-labor field and to outshine Assistant Secretary of Labor Ed McGrady, rather than a mission handed her by a president.

Strength or Weakness?

It is open to argument, perhaps, whether the Lewis challenge to Roosevelt actually constituted an admission of weakness or a claim of strength.

It has been obvious that the United Automobile Workers had signed up less than a majority of G. M. workers and that the Committee for Industrial Organization had practically been forced to throw itself into the strike.

Nevertheless C.I.O. leaders have been elated at membership gains made in the face of intensive labor espionage and other union-busting tactics.

On the other hand, the Lewis movement has tied up a huge corporation and dozens of its plants. About 135,000 men are out of work. That's hardly a weak position and Lewis, in his startling statement—which was partly designed to buck up his forces—at least believed he was on safe fighting ground. Any strike is a gamble and the appearance of groups of "loyal workers" in opposition to the strike is giving Lewis plenty of concern.

Future at Stake

Some of the experts on labor strategy in the Lewis camp are convinced that he has taken a strong position and that he chose a good time publicly to remind the president of a debt to labor.

It is also true that Lewis was correct in saving Roosevelt's political pals in labor were fighting Roosevelt's "economic royalist" campaign enemies in the form of General Motors, since the strong influence in G.M.C. of a duPont-Morgan group is well known, and the corporation has defied the Wagner labor relations act.

Furthermore, the same school argues, Lewis and the C.I.O. will have won a big victory if they can come out of the present struggle with even a foothold on the industry, which labor never had before.

Even if only a very small percentage of the total of strikers' demands is won, these experts claim, definite progress will have been made and the prestige of Lewis and the C.I.O. advanced.

Questions as to John L.'s political aspirations and arrogance, if any, may be reserved for later judgment. The essential issue is where he will end up at the conclusion of this strike.

Far from being a modern invention, "drinking straws" were used by the ancient Babylonians. The seal of the King of Hammurabi depicts the drinking of liquids from a pitcher through a tube.

Leander Culbertson, White Hall Business Man, Dies at Home

Retired from Glass Company Position Seven Years Ago; Funeral on Saturday

White Hall—Leander Ervin Culbertson died at his home on East Bridgeport street, at 3:30 a. m. Thursday morning. He was born in White Hall, September 11, 1869, the son of David and Margaret Cobb Culbertson. For a number of years he was in business with his father, in the firm of Culbertson, Smith Stone-ware Co.

Later this was sold to a factory—the Western Stoneware Co., and Mr. Culbertson then went to the Alton Glass Co., where he remained for 10 years. He retired seven years ago and since that time he has lived in White Hall.

Mr. Culbertson joined the Odd Fellows lodge in 1892 and has been a Past Noble Grand for more than 25 years. He graduated from the Gen City Business college, and attended the University of Illinois for one year.

He never married and the only surviving members of his family are two half sisters, Mrs. Myra Header, Toledo, Ohio; and Mrs. Nora Mason, who resides at the family home; one foster sister, Mrs. Charles G. Smith, of Laurens, Iowa.

The body was taken to the Dawds Funeral home. Funeral services will be in the Methodist church at 2:30 Saturday, in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Linfield. The Odd Fellows will officiate in the service and burial will be in the White Hall cemetery.

News Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Rose of LaPrairie, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dewitt.

Richard Machen left Monday for Chillicothe after spending the week-end with his mother, Mrs. C. H. Burgess. He was transferred to Chillicothe from Galesburg where he has been stationed as relief telegrapher.

Mrs. Clifford Zimmerman is substituting as teacher of the intermediate grades. Mrs. Roat, the teacher of these grades is quarantined at her home with her son, Thomas, who has scarlet fever.

Kermit Vandeventer of Versailles and Miss Dorothea Kallach of New Hersman, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Porter. Their attendants were the bride's cousins, Miss Maxine and Donald McCoy. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dow Kallasch of Hersman and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vandeventer.

Friends gave a charivari for Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Putman at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Putman Saturday evening. The young couple were married Thursday afternoon. The bride was formerly Miss Margaret Clark of Meredosia. They will go to housekeeping on the farm formerly occupied by George Ham and family.

Mrs. Nora Klinefelter is visiting in Jacksonville with her sister, Mrs. Emma Metz.

ICY WATER

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 27.—(P)—Relief workers received eagerly a box of clothing donated by some well-meaning Memphian for the comfort of flood sufferers.

Outside, refugees shivered in the cold night air, sweeping over miles of icy flood waters. The workers hastened to open the box. It contained a lot of bathing suits

If the water rises another foot the Shetland pony, pictured above, might have to be moved to a second floor bedroom. The town is Paducah, Ky., where 28 blocks were under water and almost all of the 25,000 residents had evacuated. The pony's master gave his pet an impromptu stable on the front porch, one of the few front porches above water in Paducah.

Aged Stenographer Expires in Jersey

Miss Evelyn Reynolds, Long
Circuit Court Reporter,
Dies at Hospital

Jerseyville—Miss Evelyn Reynolds, veteran stenographer for the Jersey county circuit court, and the first woman student of stenography in Jerseyville, died at the local hospital Tuesday afternoon, January 26th, at 1:30 o'clock.

Since the death of her brother, William E. Reynolds, in 1933, Miss Reynolds has resided alone on a small farm northeast of Jerseyville. When neighbors failed to see her about the home during the past few days, they investigated and found her critically ill.

Tuesday morning she was removed to the hospital and her death ensued within a short time. The body was taken to Jacoby Brothers funeral chapel, but arrangements for services have not been made.

After completing her education in the Jerseyville high school, Miss Reynolds attended a business college in St. Louis, receiving her knowledge of shorthand and typing. She returned to Jerseyville and for the past forty-four years has served as court stenographer. For some time she resided in Delhi, and although her only means of transportation was a horse and buggy, she was never deterred from attending all of the sessions of court. At one time Miss Reynolds was employed in the law offices of the late Judge Thomas F. Ferns and she was also secretary for Joseph M. Page, editor of the Jersey County Democrat for a number of years.

The deceased was the daughter of the late Edgar and Mary C. Smith Reynolds, and was born in Jerseyville. She would have observed her sixty-second birthday anniversary next Monday, Feb. 1st. Her only survivor is a nephew, Raymond Reynolds of Godfrey.

Leases Property

Paul Overay of Greenfield has leased the Mrs. R. I. Beatty store building on Main street, and moved his machinery in there Monday. He will operate a shoe repair shop in the building and has recently purchased some new machinery for the business. He has been in business with a partner in Greenfield for several years, and also conducted a shop in Wrights for a time. He will move his family here as soon as a suitable residence can be secured. Residence property is very scarce in White Hall at present.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of William L. Halbert of Springfield, held in the Dady Funeral Home Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. L. V. Halbert, Misses Oral and Mabel Halbert, Mr. and Mrs. William Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wentz, Mr. and Mrs. Tipton, Mrs. Kline and George Turney of Springfield.

Sleep Comes to Girl Refugees

Safe and sound at last on a refugee train which took flood sufferers from water-racked Portsmouth to Columbus, O., these two youngsters sleep on a day coach seat, their sleep interrupted by dreams of hot food and warm beds. For days they had watched swift currents of the Ohio river eddy through the streets, cover the second floors of homes and finally almost inundate the entire city. The tired feet of another sleeping refugee protrude into the picture.

Glasgow Mission Circle Has Meet

Mrs. J. A. Young Entertains for Group; Other News from Community

Glasgow—The January meeting of the Ladies Mission Circle was held in the home of Mrs. J. A. Young Saturday afternoon, with a goodly number of members attending the gathering. Mrs. William Drummond acted as assistant hostess.

The meeting opened with the devotional, business and roll call. Talks on chapter 9 of "Christ in the Great Forest" and Chapter 5 of "A Preface To Racial Understanding" were given in an interesting way by Miss Dorothy Killebrew and Miss Doris Fundel, respectively.

The program was followed by a social hour, during which refreshments of peaches, whipped cream, cake, cookies, coffee and cocoa were served.

The next meeting will be February 27, with Miss Doris Fundel hostess and Miss Glenna Howard as assistant.

Arnold's Twin? No, His Stand-In!

The physical resemblance between movie star Edward Arnold and his stand-in, William Hoover, as revealed above, is startling. Both even are left-handed. When Arnold was tired, Hoover, one-time cowboy actor who has been in Hollywood for 10 years, has doubled for him in previews. If you find it hard to tell which is Arnold in the picture above, he's the one shown smiling, at right.

Local Woman Tells Of Flood Which Hit Ohio Valley in 1882

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Weir were Marooned in Home There on Honeymoon Trip

"Old colored Silas," 55 years ago this month after days of wading and rowing his old flat boat through streams and down the Ohio river from Greenville to Paducah, Kentucky, arrived at a large colonial house with its family marooned by a flood which overflowed, as it has today, the river towns in Kentucky and Ohio.

A bride and groom from Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Weir, on their wedding trip to Owensboro and Louisville during the first week in January, were caught in the flood and were forced to remain there. The old negro had brought food and first aid remedies to his former master's son and his new bride, braving all the dangers in his loyalty.

The bride of years ago recalled yesterday the scenes, as she listened to the radio account of the terrible disaster in the same city where she experienced the ravages of the Ohio. She compared the Red Cross work, airplane service and efficiency of the government with federal troops trucks and engineers, and medicine with the days of "Old Silas," coming with relief.

At that time, 1882, the water rushed through the large center hall of the home from one end to the other, and the current was so strong that to save the house, all doors down stairs were opened. Even then, at times, the house rocked like a cradle. The occupants of the home moved to the second floor taking food and fuel to the upper balcony, which extended around the large house. Flour and black coffee were the main supplies for food, for the chickens and cows had been taken to higher ground.

Commute to Store
A boat tied to the stairway was the only means of transportation to the little store, which was operated from the second story by the proprietor until it was submerged.

As in the present flood small-pox, chicken-pox and measles broke out, but at that time, warm weather prevailed and served to break the crest of the flood. Before the disaster was complete, the waters receded, but only after great loss of property and the destruction of many homes which sat down the river to be lost or salvaged many miles from their original sites.

The late Mr. Weir at that time had a federal position which took him to Kentucky. He and his bride were on their way to his assignment when they were caught in the flood. They were forced to leave the steamer on which they were riding, and were directed to the large southern home in which they were marooned for several days as flood waters swept along the valley.
Steamers were unable at that time to ply up and down the river. They were unable to get under the bridges, so high was the crest of the flood.
Mrs. Weir recalled that there was no government assistance at the time of the 1882 flood and that all of the relief work was carried out by individuals without much organization. Hardships were increased by the lack of organization.

Sister of Local Woman is Killed

Ruth Dinsmore Perkins Shot by Husband in Hannibal on Wednesday

Ruth Dinsmore Perkins, of Hannibal, Mo., was shot and fatally wounded by her husband, Dale Perkins, Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, according to word received here. The victim is a sister of Grace Dinsmore, of South Main street.

The shooting occurred just as Mrs. Perkins was leaving for her day's work at the International Shoe factory plant in Hannibal. Perkins, using a shotgun, shot her in the side as she was going down their front walk. The verdict of the coroner's jury characterized the act as "cold-blooded murder," according to Alderman Clarence Benson, the brother-in-law. Perkins is an employee of the Burlington railroad.

Mrs. Perkins was one of several children born to Mrs. Eva Norton Dinsmore, now of Pasadena, Calif., and the late John Dinsmore, who died in this city several years ago. She is survived by a 10-year-old daughter, Lois Jean, her mother, five sisters and a brother Mrs. Claudine Benson of Hannibal, Mrs. Fern Bollinger of Cape Girardeau, Mo., Mrs. Mary Hoyt of Carbon Cliff, Miss Grace of Jacksonville, Eva and Norton who live with the mother in California. A brother, Carl, also preceded her in death.

MRS. MARY STEAD ENTERTAINS PIKE COUNTY AUXILIARY

Griggsville.—The Auxiliary of St. James Episcopal church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Stead, with her daughter, Mrs. George A. Caldwell, as assistant hostess.

The following members participated in an interesting program: Mrs. Harry Lyle, Mrs. Page Hatch, Mrs. Fred A. Stone, and Rev. J. K. Putt.

Mrs. John Cornelius of Springfield is spending several days with her twin sister, Mrs. Lee Johnson, having come especially for the observance of their birthday on Friday.

James Vaughan is seriously ill at his home in the south part of town.

Mrs. Rose Myers has been employed to fill the vacancy at Walnut Grove school, caused by the death of Miss Harriet Fagin.

Mrs. Fannie Orr is a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Z. H. Mullins, and family of Quincy.

Mrs. Loraine Wade spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Dee Kellum, in Quincy.

J. L. Dunham is ill at the Bert Dunham home in New Salem.

Frank Riley, former Griggsville resident, has returned to his home in Chambersburg after an illness of several weeks at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Harney will leave in their car Thursday morning for San Diego, Cal., where they will spend the remainder of the winter.

Miss Rose Shinn and Warren Buchanan, students at the University of Illinois, spent the week-end with their parents.

NEGRO HELD TO GRAND JURY ON COMPLAINT

Claude Henderson, who is said to have confessed to robbing four women near the Central Christian church recently, has been bound over to await the action of the Morgan county grand jury.

Henderson waived preliminary hearing in the court of Justice C. S. Smith, and was made defendant in a complaint signed by Jesse C. Grogan, father of the girls, filed in the circuit court yesterday by State Attorney Oscar C. Zachary.

Metropolitan Opera Star tells why he prefers a light smoke

Lauritz Melchior says:

"The hardest test I can give a cigarette is to try its effect on my throat after hours of intense rehearsal. I've found that a light smoke meets this test. And so, although I am not a constant smoker, I favor Lucky Strike for the sake of my throat. And, incidentally, so does my wife. When we go back to Europe we never forget to take along a good supply of Luckies."

Lauritz Melchior

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Melchior verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen, and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat!

an application to the Public Works administration for funds to aid in the construction of the building, but no action can be taken on this application until the voters have approved the proposition to issue bonds to construct the building.

A grant in the neighborhood of $25,000 has been asked, and if this is obtained, it will not be necessary to issue the full amount of $40,000 in bonds, members of the community high school board stated.

It has been estimated that the cost of the new building will not be more than $3,500 for any year of the 20 years over which the bonds will be paid off. The proposed bonds will increase the present tax rate an estimated 30 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Meredosia to Vote On New High School Building on Feb. 9

Board of Education Asks for Decision; Grade School Asks for Room

Voters of the Meredosia community high school district will have an opportunity on February 9 to express their opinions on the proposal to issue $40,000 in bonds for the construction of a new high school building. The high school district there is faced with a serious problem in view of the recent action of the board of education governing the grade school affairs, in which the grade school board asked for room in its building now partially occupied by the high school.

Plans for the proposed building have been prepared by Raymond Johnson, Jacksonville architect, and have been tentatively approved by the board. The plans call for the construction of a building, all on one floor, consisting of six class rooms and a gymnasium.

Members of the high school board of education set February 9 as the date for the election when a petition signed by 292 voters was submitted asking for an election.

There are at present about 75 pupils in the Meredosia high school. For several years the high school has been operated under a serious handicap in that the space, which has been rented from the grade school, has been too small for the efficient and proper maintenance of the school. The State Department of Instruction has told the community high school board that the lack of space is wholly inadequate.

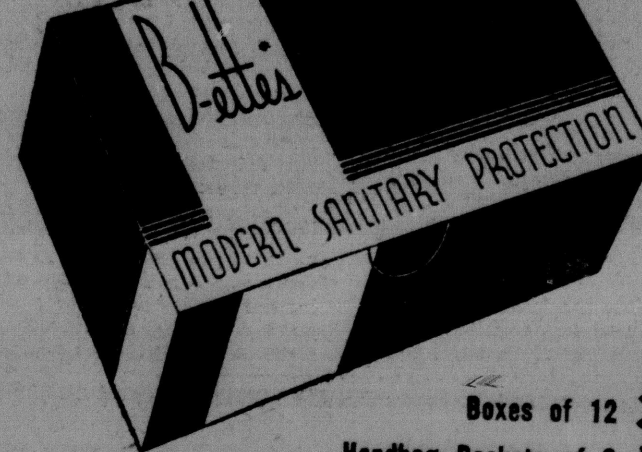

Students on Increase
The situation next year promises to become more serious in view of the fact that there is an increasing number of students expected to register, and the grade school board has notified the community high school board that it will need one of the rooms now rented by the high school. Only an assembly room and an administration office will be available for high school purposes next year.

Faced with the possible discontinuance of the high school unless a building is constructed, and the possible loss of its accredited standing, the community high school district must either construct a building or provide some means of transporting students to other high school districts.

The grade school board has rejected a proposal to build an addition onto the grade school building to provide facilities for the high school.

The high school board has made

Louisville, Other Flooded Districts Face Enormous Task

300 Known Dead, Thousands Sick, Property Damage Up to $100,000,000

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Wounded just 666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day Try "Rub-My-Tism" World's Best Liniment.

short of the heart but no longer frightened, Louisville knew the worst today and faced a long, sad convalescence after five days of terror. A light drizzle was falling and rising temperatures were forecast. There were hundreds dead, perhaps hundreds more in a great plain of dwellings completely covered by water, but that marvellous Ohio was going down, and for the moment that was all that mattered.

The greatest flood in the history of the Ohio valley now turns its force toward the mighty Mississippi, leaving behind a record of $7.1 feet, over two hundred known dead, thousands gravely ill of diseases attributed to the raging waters, and the possibility that it will be weeks at least before the full death toll is known, if it is ever to be known.

Property damage in all probability will amount to $100,000,000.

How great the loss of life could be was indicated last night in a resume of the situation given the nation by Mayor Neville Miller over a radio net-work. He said there were 200 dead, after Chief Health officer Dr. Hugh R. Leavell admitted that 130 dead had been taken from homes along the fringe of the west end section, from homes that were not submerged entirely.

These, he said, were victims of heart failure, pneumonia and exposure, sufferers who died just out of reach of the waters, but beyond the helping hands of a tremendous relief drive in which all parts of the nation joined hands with funds and supplies. Cities from as far south as Phoenix, Ariz., and as far east as Boston, Mass., have provided by air hundreds of police officers to join the 600 federal troops aiding local authorities.

Today, as the flood waters started to subside, and, despite predictions of light rain, promised to keep going down at the rate of a foot or so a day for the next week, every power at the city's command was thrown into the fight to prevent more suffering.

Salmon Take Steps to Propagate Selves

Salmon, heretofore prevented from migrating up the Arrostook river by a mighty dam at Arrostook Falls, Me., now are able to travel upstream and complete their spawning, through the medium of a series of ascending pools. The fish ladder, pools of which are shown here, takes the fish over the falls in a series of steps, somewhat similar to the locks in a canal.

Hall had already collected over three hundred dollars for the Red Cross to be used for the flood sufferers, including $25.00 from the Domestic Science club. It is expected that many others will contribute to the fund before the end of the week. Francis Vaughan of Carrollton is county chairman.

Dr. W. T. Stickley, city health officer, stated Wednesday night that the health department was recommending against small pox, though it was not being made compulsory here. There are no cases here but the recommendation was made to coincide with instructions sent out from the State department of health at Springfield. Hospital Crowded

The White Hall hospital is again full. Miss Pauline Camp, R. N., of Roodhouse began night duty at the hospital Wednesday night. Miss Lucy Wood and Mrs. B. W. Bierman, R. N., are assisting Miss Jane Gilmore, R. N., during the day time.

New Berlin Man is Injured in Crash

Car Skids Across Road Into Path of Another; Other News of Interest

New Berlin—A. H. Walker, daughter Nadine, and sons Alfred and Winthrop happened with what might have been a very serious automobile accident Sunday. Mr. Walker, employed as station agent at Hannibal, Mo., had been spending Sunday with his family here, and his daughter Nadine, with the boys were driving him back to Hannibal Sunday afternoon when, nearing Barry, Ill., the car skidded on the slick road and an oncoming car crashed into them. Mr. Walker was cut very badly over the face and limbs, so as to be taken to Wabash hospital in Decatur. Winthrop suffered a broken collar bone and cut; Nadine was cut and bruised, and Alfred escaped without any injury. All are improving.

Mrs. Louis Roesch was hostess to the Mu Beta club Monday night at a dessert bridge served at 7 o'clock. After a lovely dessert, four tables of bridge played, with Mrs. Harold Zude holding high score; Miss Virginia Terhune, second high, and cut prize won by Miss Marie Roesch, a guest of the hostess.

Pastor III
Rev. P. I. Blatt and children have been very sick the past week. Mr. Blatt was not able to fill the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mrs. Elve Wenneborg was called to Peoria Monday on account of the serious illness of a sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kirby drove to the home of Mr. Kirby's parents near Clinton on Friday and returned home Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Luby and nephew Howard Lovell attended a birthday dinner in Springfield Saturday, it being the birthday of Mr. Luby's sister, Mrs. Kirby.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maxey, Mrs. Orlis King, and Mrs. W. G. Coons started on an overland trip to Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Maxey plan to spend six weeks at the home of their son Raymond and family and Mrs. King and Coons at the Griswold home.

McCabe Church Activities

In the face of the inclement weather Sunday was a day with marked attendance at all services. Pastor Walker is still confined to his bed with influenza. Mrs. J. Blaine Walker was able to carry on services during his absence. She will occupy the pulpit again next Sunday morning and evening.

In the absence of Dr. Robt. H. Beverly an improved program was had with a good audience present.

Mrs. Vanita Lewis is now chairman of the coal committee and solicits a liberal contribution from each member.

Mrs. Mabel Davis and Emma Black were assigned special efforts among the membership and Linwood Fountain the fourth quarterly arrears.

Ashland Bumps Plains 38-26 To Stay in Own Tournament; Bath Eliminates N. Berlin

7:30 p. m.—Winchester vs. Mt. Sterling.
8:30 p. m.—Lanphier vs. Franklin.

Ashland, Jan. 28.—Bath eliminated New Berlin 23 to 22, and Ashland remained in their own tournament by bumping Pleasant Plains 38 to 26, in two colorful battles tonight.

Both games were thrillers, the Ashland-Plains skirmish being especially hard fought with many personal fouls.

The quarter-finals will be continued with two games Friday night, and the semi-finals of the tournament will be staged Saturday afternoon, with the final scrap in the evening.

New Berlin led at the end of the first quarter in their tussle with Bath, but the half found the teams deadlocked at 13. Bath held a 18-19 edge as the squads went into the final round.

Ashland got away to a shaky start against Pleasant Plains, trailing 10 to 3 at the end of the opening quarter. But the half found the locals on top 17 to 12. Ashland had a 25 to 15 edge at the three-quarter mark.

Chain Farm System Suits Connie Mack

Only Way to Get Fresh Supply of Good Material

Philadelphia—(P)—The Philadelphia Athletics will "string along" with the baseball chain farm system because Connie Mack, its veteran pilot, sees no other way of competing with teams like the Yankees and Cardinals.

"The day is not far off when everyone of the 16 major league clubs will be supplied with farms ranging from Class AA Leagues down to D," Mack said last night in announcing his decision to establish chain farms.

So far his only working agreement is with Williamsport of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and he said it would take "one year" or two or maybe more to put his new plan into operation.

"You can see why I've got to fall in line," said the veteran manager whose Athletics finished in last place in the American League last season. He outlined the results other clubs had obtained with the farm system.

"The Cincinnati Reds, after finishing in last and seventh place for years, went into the minor league farm system. Last year they finished at the top of the second division and made a net profit of $105,000."

"How can I compete with clubs like the Yankees?" he asked. "They own the Newark club outright, and have working agreements with Kansas City and Oakland, three Class AA minor leagues, not to mention their smaller farms that feed these clubs."

TRI-Y CLUB MEETS

Tri-Y met at the home of Mary Kay Hardesty, No. 7 Duncan Place for a pot luck supper last evening. A short business meeting was held after which Miss Walbridge, a senior at MacMurray college, spoke on personality.

Isabel Cully, co-director of the women's work, in connection with the Y.M.C.A. was a guest at the meeting. Miss Sheppard is faculty advisor of the club.

CUBS ADD ANOTHER UNIT TO THREE EYE

Chicago—(P)—Chicago's Cubs have added a fourth unit, Moline, Ill., of the revived Three-Eye League, to their "farm" system.

The National League club completed arrangements yesterday for a "working agreement" with Moline to bring a Class B outfit into the system. Mike Gazzella, former New York Yankee infielder, who led Ponca City, Okla., to two championships in the Western Association, will manage the Moline team.

In addition to Moline, the Cubs own the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League club, a Class AA organization, and have working agreements with Birmingham, Ala., of the Southern Association, a Class A-1 group, and Eau Claire, Wis., in the Class D Northern League.

Louis Knocked Down While in Training

Pastor Claims He Will Stop Joe Within Ten Rounds

New York—(P)—The training-camp knockdown of Joe Louis echoed "round the fistic world today—and the loud-est echo came from the camp of Bob Pastor, who tangles with the brown bomber in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Without referring to the story that Louis dropped to the canvas after sparring Mate Eddie Malcolm threw a right-hand punch at him in yesterday's training session, the bull-necked ex-collegian issued a statement declaring:

1—That Louis "couldn't dent a pound of butter" if he didn't have extra bandages on his hands; even be a preliminary fighter if he was boxing in the bare knuckle days." and

2—That the State Athletic Commission should "compel Louis to live up to rules and regulations relative to bandages."

Then Pastor took a deep breath and predicted:

"It will prove conclusively I will stop Joe Louis within ten rounds Friday night if he is not allowed to wear extra bandages."

The Louis training camp episode was regarded variously as "one of those things" and as a legitimate knockdown. The eyebrow-raisers pointed out that if Joe kissed the canvas from a punch it would have the same lure for the fight faithful as a spilled bottle of honey on a drove of files.

The possibility that Pastor might duplicate the stunt underlined the draw more fans than if he was conceded no chance at all, as has been the prediction. Louis, himself, insisted he slipped; and that the punch on his head had nothing to do with his going down. His followers pointed out that he came up off the floor immediately and pounded the dusky Malcolm all over the ring.

Ringside observers, all fight writers, were mixed in their opinions, while the garden expanded its gate prediction to a possible $125,000 sell-out for the 10-round bout.

Old Rivals Tangle On Courts Tonight

Three Illinois Valley Tilts to Feature Loop; Tourney Checks Action

Old rivals will tangle on basketball courts throughout the section tonight, with three Illinois Valley conference games featuring the program in this league. Ashland's tournament also has placed a damper on the activity around here, but there will be plenty of basketball excitement.

Jerseyville goes to Carrollton for a doubleheader, and Greenfield plays at Roodhouse in another double header. Both games counting in the Southern division championship race, and Pleasant Hill and Pittsfield will meet on the Pleasant Hill court in a battle to determine leadership in the Northern division.

Bluffs and Milton are carded for a pair of games at Milton and Nebo and Griggsville get together for a Pike county conference scrap. Pawnee will go to Waverly for an M.S.M. conference game.

The schedule:

White Hall at Jacksonville high. Jerseyville at Carrollton. Greenfield at Roodhouse. Pittsfield at Pleasant Hill. Bluffs at Milton. Nebo at Griggsville. Pawnee at Waverly. Chapin at Alsey.

BENEFITS—If any high school team around here wants to play a game for the benefit of the flood sufferers in the Ohio river valley, get in touch with Bruno Bierman, coach of the White Hall team which plays here tonight. Bierman believes he can arrange a benefit game for this Sunday afternoon.

SUGGESTIONS—A return match between Beardstown and White Hall might pack 'em in. Beardstown has lost only three games, and White Hall has been defeated only by Beardstown this year. Rushville is another opponent. I.S.D. might be glad to play White Hall if it would mean lifting the quarantine.

QUARANTINE—It is no longer any fun at I.S.D. It is as hard on the teachers as it is on the students. There isn't any sickness in the local institution, Dan Cloud tells us, but the ban is on and will stay there until it is lifted on orders from Springfield.

TOURNAMENT—Carrollton High has added enough bleachers to this gymnasium to bring the seating capacity to 700 for the Greene county tournament. They'll probably be needed because that tournament has recorded more upsets than any other seeded affair in this part of the country. Seeding became so uncertain down there that it has been dropped this year and the pairings were made by drawings made out of a hat.

White Hall also has put up additional bleachers for use during the White Hall-Roodhouse game the other night and the Regional tournament.

SUNSET—This Sunday will mark the end of the rabbit hunting season. Huntsmen can lay away their guns until next July when the squirrel shooting season begins. You may keep rabbits long after the season closes, but business places cannot sell them after Feb. 5.

BIG JOLT—Lincoln high, after upsetting Pekin high the other night in a Big Twelve game, returned to its earlier form and lost a close game to Williamsville. Atlanta, one of the Logan county tournament teams which began the season slowly, bumped off Latham, rated as the number one team of the county, in the opening round 29-25.

FOX HUNT—Today at New Berlin and another at Bluffs. Reynard is on the run after one of the most vigorous campaigns in recent years. Some sportsmen object to staging fox hunts. They argue that there are men in the business of taking foxes and that amateurs should keep out. The answer is that if the professionals will keep out the foxes, there will be no need for the amateurs to tramp over hill and dale.

SUSTAINED—Bob Wixom, Rushville coach, admits that he scratched off 24 of a possible names of officials submitted by Beardstown for the game at Beardstown, but says he did it way last year. The two schools agreed on Lee Kory as an official, and then had to cancel the game.

Much Ado About Nothing apparently.

SUSPECT HANGS SELF

Chicago—(P)—Charles Sale, 43, a gambler arrested for questioning, hanged himself in a cell at the detective bureau early today.

VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

Moline, Ill.—(P)—Chalmers K. Seymour, 39, well known attorney, died last night of pneumonia. He had been active in American Legion circles, A. A.

S. J. Baxter and Rev. Aric Vanderhorst were Woodson callers among friends in the business district Wednesday.

Workmen here inspect the almost finished pontoon footbridge which was built in Louisville by a thousand volunteer workers who swung hammers to the cry of "Don't Spare the Nails." Louisville's famed whisky industry built the bridge, for under these planks float cask after cask, made of white charred oak, swaying and dipping with the current but bearing up a steady file of flood sufferers who tramped over the bridge when it was completed. It was the city's only outlet to the Highlands, the only way—except by boat—to bring in food and medicine for 230,000 homeless.

New York, Jan. 28.—(P)—Steels took the play away from the rest of the stock market today and vaulted up 1 to about 5 points, some to the best levels for the recovery period. Many groups were backward, however, and prices were highly mixed at the close.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem touched 93 and 81, respectively, tops for the past 6 years or longer. The majority of the favorites ended considerably under their peaks of the day and losers were numerous.

Tension over floods and strikes seemed to have eased in the financial district, but there apparently were still sufficient handicaps present in the speculative and investment field to inspire sizable offerings on the advance.

Hogs Hit Lowest
Price in 6 Weeks

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(P)—Hog prices dropped to the lowest level in six weeks today as the market continued downward under the depressing influence of the sluggish dressed meat trade.

Hogs started out 10 to 15 cents lower but wound up with net loss of 15 to 25 cents, with spots off more. The early $10 top, with $10.05 paid for a small lot, gave way to $9.90, which was the best price paid at the close.

Aside from the dressed pork market situation, the market had to contend with the bearish effects of the flood and motor strike, which traders said, were affecting the meat trade. Wholesale pork loins lost 1 cent a pound, choice loins falling to the lowest level since mid-December.

The cattle trade was dull, small volume moving mostly at $8 to $11. Strictly good and choice cattle sold at $12.50 to $14. The general steer market was 25 to 75 cents lower than a week ago.

Fat lambs were little changed. Top was $10.80.

A trade report indicated the floods had destroyed large quantities of livestock roughage and feed grains.

Farm and Rural Interest

"The Farm Bureau of Tomorrow" Subject of Address By Edward O'Neal, National Farm Chief; Men on Train Raise Flood Relief Fund; Credit Meeting in Pike.

(Excerpts from address of Edward O'Neal, president, American Farm Bureau Federation, at the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association, Chicago.)

In discussing the Farm Bureau of tomorrow, we must consider it in the light of yesterday and today. The Farm Bureau sprang into being spontaneously, in response to a need that was universally felt among farmers. The first Farm Bureaus were organized around the County Agricultural agent, to work in attacking the major farm problems, which at that time centered around the production of commodities. It is significant that many of these early county organizations were called "soil improvement associations."

After the war, the farmer suddenly awoke to the fact that a large part of his foreign market had vanished, and that he was faced with new problems which his county organization was powerless to cope with. Therefore, county Farm Bureaus were federated into state organizations, and the state organizations banded together to form the American Farm Bureau Federation, pooling the power of organized farmers all over the country so as to bring their mass influence to bear on national policies affecting agriculture.

The newly organized national federation attacked with vigor the problem of cost of distribution. For a time, leaders believed that co-operative marketing might solve the commodity price problem. Attempts were made to reduce transportation costs, and every effort was made to find some way to lower distribution costs, but it was soon discovered that the real heart of the problem had not been reached. From the beginning the Farm Bureau worked for improvement of credit conditions, and about 1923 it inaugurated its long fight for commodity surplus control. Later monetary reform became a major objective, these three issues, surplus control, money and credit, formed the basis of the permanent program of the organization.

Farmers Attain Objectives

The results of the long fight waged by the Farm Bureau are now well known. We suddenly attained, partially at least, our objectives in all three issues—and in one law, the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. Many have forgotten that dollar devaluation, the amendment of the federal land bank law, and control of production were all in one law, but such was the case.

The Farm Bureau of the future will build higher on the foundation that has been laid at the cost of so much effort. Its scope and influence will be very greatly extended, but its job will be precisely the same as it has been, namely to maintain parity position for agriculture with other groups. Today the Farm Bureau is respected and its counsel sought on farm affairs, because its policies have been moderate, sane, sound, and fair to other groups. We have always advocated putting a ceiling on commodity prices at parity levels. Such a position is unassailable because it is so fair to other groups.

My wish for the Farm Bureau of tomorrow is that it will be patterned after your own Illinois Agricultural Association, the finest, most effective farm organization in the world. It was no accident that the Illinois delegation in the House voted almost unanimously for the Soil Conservation Act. The members voted that way because they knew that the Farm Bureau in Illinois wanted it, and they knew that the organization spoke for agriculture in the state. That's what I'm talking about in this matter of influence, and it is the Farm Bureau of tomorrow will guard and maintain such an influence as its most precious possession.

The great aim of the Farm Bureau of tomorrow will be to help in maintaining balance between the great population groups in this country. The farmers are capitalists because we have the greatest investment in our business of any group in the country. We believe this capital should have a fair return on its investment. The farmers are also laborers, because the amount of their income depends on their diligence in the fields. Therefore we understand the aims and aspirations of the laboring class, and we believe that every laborer is entitled to a fair wage. The farmer believes in the Golden Rule. He has practiced it in his dealings with other groups, and he is going to insist that other groups observe it in dealing with him.

Farmers on Special Train

Two hundred sixty-five central Illinois farmers departed for Chicago Wednesday from Springfield aboard a five car special Alton train to attend the annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural Association, but even the excursion did not dim their benevolence toward flood victims.

While the train was skimming northward, someone suggested a collection be taken up for the flood victims. A hastily formed committee canvassed the train and secured $124. It was turned over to Nell J. Souder, Springfield, traveling passenger agent for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and when the group arrived in Chicago he presented the money to radio station WLS.

The group, which included farmers from Sangamon, Macoupin, Jersey, Christian, Cass, Pike, Logan, McLean, Greene and Menard counties, will return today.

Production Credit Will Be Talked at Springfield
A large attendance is expected at this year's stockholders' meeting of the Mississippi Valley Production

Credit association, M. T. Wells, secretary-treasurer, announced at Pittsfield as arrangements for the meeting took final form.

The meeting is to be held at the Legion hall in Pittsfield, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Feb. 4. Lunch will be served by the Legion Auxiliary. An increase in business will be reported by officers of the association and noted speakers will be provided to talk on subjects of interest to farmers.

"Farmers in the Sixth Farm Credit district which includes Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas have manifested a vital interest in the affairs of the Production Credit associations, as is evidenced by the fact that for the past two years a large per cent of stockholders attending each of the annual meetings has been second highest in the United States," Mr. Wells said.

Many of the members who live some distance from Pittsfield are arranging to get together in groups to fill several automobiles for economy and convenience in making the trip. Community chairmen have been appointed and although handicapped by lack of telephone service are contacting their members and helping to arrange transportation.

Treatment of Seed Corn

Wide spread corn ear worm damage makes it more important than ever that seed corn be treated this year to prevent the development of diseases, according to Benjamin Koehler, associate chief in crop pathology, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

When the seed corn is broken, soil fungi invade the kernel immediately after planting and before the corn germ has had a chance to sprout, Koehler explained. This results in weakened plants and reduced stands under favorable germinating and growing conditions as well as under conditions not so favorable.

Experiments at the agricultural college have shown that fully three-fourths of the loss to yield from injured seed coats can be avoided by the use of good seed treatment.

Use of these organic mercury disinfectants has also been found an aid in protecting seed corn from cold soil temperatures and from seed infection by fungi and from seed infection from seed treatment, planting is followed by conditions under which the corn germinates and grows slowly," Koehler said. "Under such circumstances the seed treatment usually gives remarkable benefits by protecting against attacks by soil organisms and under critical conditions may save the necessity of replanting."

Relative to seed infection he pointed out that the infection carried in the seed varies from year to year and in seasons when infection is bad, even carefully selected seed ears may carry a considerable percentage of diseased kernels. Where the corn germs have not already been killed or greatly weakened by the disease, seed treatment overcomes the infection to a considerable extent.

Like infection from the soil, seed infection also causes most damage under cold soil conditions, but the damage is not entirely limited to such conditions. Because of infection in the seed and soil, tests over a period of years have shown that even in high grade seed, when planted before the middle of May in central Illinois, the benefits from seed treatment average about three bushels an acre increase in yield.

Hybrids have benefited just as much as open-pollinated varieties. Seed may be treated as soon as it has been shelled and graded for planting, provided it is stored where it will not come into contact with damp air, Koehler said. Mixing may be done in a can, churn or treating machine but it is best not to attempt mixing with merely a shovel. It is well to avoid an excess of dust, more than will stick to the kernels.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE FOR GRADUATES

Argentina Grain
Pulls Wheat Down

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(P)—Increasing big shipments from Argentina pulled Chicago wheat values down a cent a bushel today to a season new low record for September contracts.

Assertions were current that European importers had adopted a waiting attitude, and as much as possible were holding off from purchases. It was estimated Argentina's wheat shipments to other countries this week would total 7,715,000 bushels, against 7,695,000 last week and but 651,000 the corresponding week last year.

At today's low point, May wheat here, touching $1.25, was off 12 cents from the season's high, which was reached a month ago. This attracted some support to the market.

Chicago wheat futures closed 1-3/4 under yesterday's finish, May 126 1/2-1; July 110 1/2-1; Sept. 107 1/2-1; corn 11-2 cents down; May 106 1/2-107; July 101 1/2-1; Sept. 96 1/2-97; oats 4-1/2 off, May 48 1/2-49; and rye showing 1-1 setback, May 108 1/2. In provisions, the outcome was 10 to 25 cents decline.

Chicago Livestock

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(P)—U. S. Dept. Agr.—Hogs 20,000 including 6,000 direct; market opened 10-15 lower and closed mostly 15-25 lower than Wednesday's average; spots off more; early top 10.00; small lot 10.05; late bulk good and choice 180-300 lbs. 9.85 and 9.90; most good sows 9.15-40; shippers 2,500; estimated holdover 3,000.

Cattle 4,500; calves 1,000; fed steers and yearlings slow, barely steady killing quality plain; shabby supply holdover cattle in crop; largely 8.00-11.00 market, with strictly good and choice offerings 12.50-14.00; latter price top; best 14 1/2 lbs. 12.25; rough but fat 15 1/2 lbs. 12.50; general steer market closing unevenly 25-75 lower; good to near choice medium weight and weight kind 50-75 under a week ago; beef cows 10-15 lower, cutter grades showing decline; bulls fully steady; vealers unevenly steady to 50 lower; light kinds showing most decline in selling at 9.50-10.50; for 110 to 135 lb. averages; stockers weak, lower for the week.

Sheep 9,000, including 3,000 direct; fat lambs closing mostly steady; sheep also little changed; bulk good to choice 82-95 lb. lambs 10.35-50; top 10.60 to outsiders for 86-89 lb. natives; several loads lacking finish 10.25; some lightweights down to 10.00; choice 86-102 lb. yearlings 9.50; double choice 104 lb. western ewes 6.00; most natives 5.00-6.00.

REPORT OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING OF THE FLORIDA POLICE.

ACTION on instructions received I boarded S. Y. Golden Gull from police launch, X21 at 10:40 p. m. in the company of Detective Officer Neame, Police Surgeon Jacket, Station Photographer Southwood and Officer Gurdon of the Uniform Branch.

Captain Derringham received me with the owner, Mr. Carlton Rocksavage. I proceeded to the captain's cabin to take statements, Detective Officer Neame acting as stenographer.

WE sailed from New York at 12:30 p. m. on the 5th carrying five passengers in addition to the owner, Mr. Carlton Rocksavage, and his daughter, Miss Ferri.

CHAPTER I

Rocksavage, The passengers were Lady Welter, the Honorable Reginald Jocelyn and Mrs. Jocelyn, who are Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law, the Bishop of Bude and Count Luigi Posodini.

We arrived off Miami at 2:35 this afternoon, where we anchored. My instructions were that three new guests would come on board, immediately these were aboard, I was to proceed to Nassau Bahamas.

At 8:38, just after I had sat down to dinner in my cabin, I was sent for by the owner to come down to the suite which had been allotted to Mr. Bolitho Blane. I found the owner there with Mr. Blane's secretary. They explained to me that Mr. Blane was missing and had left a note which gave reason to suppose that he had committed suicide. The window of the drawing room cabin was wide open and it looked as if Mr. Blane had thrown himself over-

Chester Conlee Tells First Hand Story Of Flood At Cincinnati

Chester Conlee, a Cincinnati business man, reclined in a chair at his brother's home here last night, and related first-hand experiences of the Ohio river flood.

As Mr. Conlee talked, waters of the raging Ohio swirled through a cleaning plant he operated in Cincinnati.

It was 12 feet in the plant when he last saw it. He doesn't know how deep it is now.

Floods Block Motor Traffic Thru Ohio Valley, Report Says

Roads in This Section are Almost Free of Ice; Avoid S. Illinois

The Jacksonville Auto club reports that roads in central Illinois are almost entirely free from ice, except through towns and cities and those streets are clearing rapidly.

Traffic in the entire Ohio Valley from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cairo, Illinois has been at a standstill for several days and no traffic except for relief purposes is now permitted in southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Flood waters are just reaching the lower Mississippi Valley and in all probability the same condition will prevail in that area for several days. The direct route to Florida, have been closed for several days and those planning trips to the south should keep in close touch with their local clubs for latest information.

Little Rock, Arkansas may be reached by St. Louis and Springfield, Mo., but as this route is through the Ozarks frequent inquiry on road and weather conditions should be made to avoid driving on ice-covered highways.

There has been no blockades on the route to California via St. Louis, Joplin, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, through Texas and the southern route into California. However the route through Arkansas via West Memphis to connect with this route in Texas has been closed for several days. The route via St. Louis and Poplar Bluff, Mo., to Little Rock has also been under water and closed for several days.

Traffic in the north central states has been slowed up this week on account of ice-covered highways which also extended into northern Indiana, Michigan and Ohio. This condition is rapidly improving and with a little mild weather will be entirely eliminated.

As Cincinnati is without lights, gas and other conveniences, the Conlees thought it best to leave until living conditions became more endurable.

When lower sections of the city became flooded last week, Mr. Conlee's central cleaning plant at 1602 Freeman avenue in the Liberty square area was not affected.

Cares For Refugees

Rescue squads in boats landed refugees near the office of the plant, and they were given shelter by Mr. Conlee.

"Some of the children were as wet as drowned rats," he related last night. But the waters continued to rise, and within a day or so the cleaning plant that had been a haven of refuge was under water.

Joining hundreds of other citizen volunteers, Mr. Conlee placed an automobile at disposal of the relief workers and transported homeless persons to school houses and other buildings.

"We had to take them out of one school house and haul them to another," he said. "The water seemed to follow every where we went."

High praise for the Cincinnati municipal government, and especially the city manager for the manner in which relief work has been conducted, was expressed by Mr. Conlee.

City Rallies Forces

"When things began to look bad last Wednesday and Thursday, the whole situation was placed in charge of the city manager. He appointed men to take command of certain details of relief work. The organization worked smoothly and efficiently."

"As far as I know, there have been but three deaths from drowning in the Cincinnati area. Two negroes were drowned when their boat overturned. A citizen who had climbed to the roof of his home fell off and drowned."

"Thousands of persons, including many children, were removed to places of safety, Mr. Conlee stated.

He said the heavy rains last week on top of a six inch snow contributed greatly to flood conditions at Cincinnati. The sewers could not accommodate the surface water and with the river on a rampage, the city was quickly overflowed.

The visitor from the flood area is also a brother of L. P. Conlee of East College avenue, and Mrs. Everett Peak of White Hall, who he will visit before returning to Ohio. He has been engaged in business in Cincinnati for the past 12 years.

PLAYBOYS TO GIVE PROGRAM OF MUSIC AT COMMUNITY MEET

"The Playboys" will present a program of vocal and instrumental music at the gathering in the Jefferson school tonight at 7:30. In addition to the program by "The Playboys" there will be several vocal numbers by Miss Roseella Pisk, a colored entertainer who has been singing over WTAX.

"The Playboys" consist of George Cuthbert, piano accordion, Richard Bogart, guitar and voice, and Clarence Smith, banjo and mouth harp. These young men are accomplished musicians and are in great demand as entertainers.

An unusual 4-reel movie "The Beneficent Reprobate" will also be a part of the evening's program. These are free to the public as a part of the program of the Jacksonville Y.M.C.A. with the cooperation of the Jacksonville Rotary club.

Children who wish to attend must be accompanied by their parents.

Following this program—at 9 o'clock—the young people's group will enjoy an hour of gym games and activities. This is for the young people of high school age and older.

TOMLINSON FAMILY SAFE AT CINCINNATI

T. M. Tomlinson of this city has received word from his son Edward Tomlinson, who resides near Cincinnati, Ohio, that the Tomlinson family is safe. Mr. Tomlinson does not reside in Cincinnati, but about 12 miles east of that flood stricken city. He reports that flood conditions are terrible.

WOMAN'S CLUB OF SCOTT HOLDS MEET AT HAINSFURTH HOME

Winchester, Jan. 28.—The Music and Drama department of the Winchester Woman's club heard a reading rehearsal of "Idiot's Delight," Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer prize play, by Miss Jeanette Powell of Jacksonville at their meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Hainsfurther. Mrs. Hainsfurther and Mrs. Ralph Peak were in charge of the program for the afternoon.

Tournament To Be Here

Proceeds will be turned over to the local Red Cross.

Morgan County Relief Fund for Flood Victims Nears $2,000, Report

Nearly $2,000 in cash, approximately two tons of clothing and a large amount of food supplies have been contributed by Morgan county residents for use in the flood stricken area, it was announced last night. The money contributions are being given to the Red Cross for distribution, the clothing is being shipped to Marion, Ill., and the food supplies are being collected at the American Legion Home to be sent to the southern Illinois refugees.

Alexander Club Kills One Fox in Hunt Thursday

Sixty Men Participate in Round-up; Season's Total Seven

Alexander—The Alexander Sportsman's club wound up its fox hunting activities for the year Thursday afternoon with a drive in which 60 men participated. One fox fell before the guns of the men as they covered an area of approximately six square miles.

Otto Wood, of the Pisgah neighborhood was credited with bringing down the fox.

During the season, the club killed seven foxes and obtained about $32 for their hides. The money has been placed in the club treasury.

There will be a fox hunt at New Berlin Friday morning.

Miss Gladys Six arrived Tuesday morning from Cincinnati, Ohio, for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Six.

The local American Legion has been asked to solicit and gather for shipment all bedding, blankets, mattresses, quilts, clothing for men, women and children and also boats of shallow draft. They are to be sent to A. D. Hovey, Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, at Marion, Illinois.

AMERICAN LEGION ASKS FOR FOOD SUPPLIES FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

The Forty and Eight engine was used by the American Legion here yesterday afternoon to bring to the attention of Jacksonville residents the need for food supplies in the stricken southern Illinois flood area. The engine toured the city bearing signs stating that canned goods were wanted to be used in the flooded sections of Illinois.

Grade and parochial schools were visited by the Legion post commander J. C. Walsh and contributions were requested. The children were urged to bring two or more cans of food to school today and the American Legion will collect them and Saturday morning they will be sent to Herrin early Saturday morning.

A large quantity of canned goods were sent to the Legion Home yesterday but much more is needed.

School Board Ready To Buy Lockers For Lafayette Building

Contract Price of $3,155 Approved; Large Saving Has Been Effectuated

A contract for supplying metal lockers and class room cabinets to be installed at the new Lafayette grade school building was awarded by the board of education yesterday afternoon to the Art Metal Company of Jamestown, N. Y., whose bid of $3,155.90 was the lowest of three received. The contract is subject to approval of PWA officials.

The board of education has been attempting to purchase lockers and cabinets since November, but didn't like the prices. One company's original bid was $6,000, practically twice as much as the district will pay for the materials approved yesterday. This was the third time the board called for locker and cabinet bids, and during the intervening time its members investigated the market for this particular kind of furnishings.

With announcement of action in awarding the locker contract, Supt. R. O. Stoops stated that the lockers and cabinets should be installed previous to April 1. The new building will not be occupied until the installation of the new furnishings is complete.

The bid of the New York company includes metal trimmings and complete locker and class room cabinet fixtures. Other companies bidding were Lyons Metal Products and the Medhart Manufacturing Company, the latter firm entering a bid on only one section of the contract.

In rejecting the original bids received last year, the board members figured they saved $2,980.61 by delaying the purchase and calling for bids from additional manufacturing companies.

Farmer Dies While Loading Wood Near Eldred Yesterday

Carrollton, Jan. 28.—Vincent Richey, a farmer residing four miles southwest of Eldred, dropped dead at 11 o'clock this morning in a wood lot near his home.

Richey had gone to the wood lot with his son, John, to get a load of fuel. He collapsed on the ground after helping to load the wagon with wood.

The victim of a heart attack was placed in a car and brought here to the office of Dr. A. K. Baldwin, who said Richey had been dead for a half hour.

The decedent was born in Calhoun county Jan. 10, 1873.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Isabelle Richey, and nine children, Mrs. Iva Rathgeber, Walter, Mrs. May Varble, Mrs. V. Smith, Clarence, Ralph, Ludd, John, and Mrs. Dorothy Snodgrass. Also surviving are one brother and one sister, Milton Richey and Mrs. Mary Ottwell.

Coroner Shields of Greenfield held an inquest here, the verdict being death from a heart attack.

Aviation Subject

At A.B.C. Meeting

Benjamin Negus Is Speaker at Thursday Night Meeting

Transport and private flying have a lot in common, but the way to becoming a transport pilot is much longer than the road to a private pilot's license, Benjamin Negus, local aviation enthusiast told the American Business clubs in an interesting discussion of the general topic of aviation last night.

In the first place, he pointed out, commercial pilots handle ships which weigh about six tons, and ships which have been designed for construction this year, deliverable in 1938, will weigh seven tons. Private planes weigh much less than the huge transport ships.

Pilots of transport ships are required to pass severe tests, particularly on their physical condition. Private pilots also have to pass an examination, but the average person is capable of meeting the requirements for this license, he said.

Most essential is that the pilot have a good sense of balance and good eyesight. The speaker explained why it is necessary to have these qualities for successfully operating a ship.

Mr. Negus explained the various steps through which aviation has progressed, and told of the various kinds of motors used in the transport, private and military planes. He placed considerable credence in the theory that mineral deposits in the mountains in California caused the recent airplane crashes there through affecting the instruments which transport pilots use in navigating their ships.

Following the talk, the meeting was thrown open to a general discussion, during which the members of the club asked questions.

Phillip Bradish presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Wilbur Read and Robert Keating were guests at the meeting which was held in the Blue Room of the Peacock Inn.

Vaccination Urged By Superintendent For All Children

"Twenty-six hundred public school children of Jacksonville this week are taking home to their parents a message from Dr. R. O. Stoops, city superintendent, calling attention to the need for immediate vaccination of pupils against smallpox."

"We owe to our children this simple means of protecting them," the city superintendent said in the appeal to parents. He urged that steps be taken at once to immunize children.

The statement read:

"To All Parents:

"Smallpox exists near Jacksonville and may reach epidemic proportions here unless we all unite at once to secure community-wide vaccination."

"May I remind you that smallpox is a loathsome disease which usually leaves the victim disfigured for life. Vaccination, however, is an inexpensive and sure preventive of smallpox. We owe to our children this simple means of protecting them against this treacherous disease."

"At the request of our health department I am urging you to send or take your children of all ages to your family physician at once and have them vaccinated. Adults, as well as children, who have been vaccinated within the past five years, are immune to smallpox. All others may play safe by being vaccinated immediately. Neglect or delay in this matter may prove disastrous."

Dr. Stoops said the vaccination appeal was issued after he conferred with members of the health committee of the Morgan County Medical society, and Parent-Teacher association officials, both organizations recommending immediate steps to guard the health of children.

Grade school children were given the message yesterday to deliver to parents. High school students will be given the same notice today to take to their parents.
